Overview
Theraplay proposes an accessible and engaging method that offers a reparative therapeutic experience to children who have suffered disruptive attachment experiences.

Workshop Overview
This session explores;
- The history and development of Theraplay
- Principles of Theraplay that revolve around the relational dimensions of Structure, Nurture, Challenge and Engagement
- Which children may benefit from Theraplay
- The process of Theraplay treatment
- Training as a Theraplay therapist

Who is this workshop for?
The session will be of interest to those working with children with disrupted attachments who seem to be finding it hard to access more traditional therapeutic modalities. These might be counsellors, psychotherapists, school staff, parents, childcare social workers, social workers supporting foster-carers or adopters and students who may be considering Theraplay as a research area.
