

Application to submit a paper to the 'work in progress' session

This session is to encourage historians of education in the early stage of their research careers to present a short paper of about 10 minutes outlining their project or aspects of their investigation. These presentations may be on any topic in education history, regardless of the conference theme. The aim is to provide constructive support and advice from other researchers to generate networks with common interests.

Please submit a proposed title and abstract of 250 words to Susannah Wright:

Unwaged researchers presenting in this forum as student members of the HES UK may also be eligible for conference bursaries. Once the paper is accepted for presentation, and membership of the HES is completed, please make application to Catherine Matheson:
