Young People's Mental Health in Schools: Understanding and Responding to the Evidence

A talk from Professor Gordon Harold

DMB GS5, Wednesday 16th May 2018, 16.00-18.00

Professor Gordon Harold holds the Andrew and Virginia Rudd Chair and is Professor of Child and Adolescent Mental Health in the School of Psychology at the University of Sussex.

Harold's primary research interests focus on examining the impact of early rearing adversities (e.g. inter-parental conflict, negative parenting, parent mental health) on child and adolescent mental health (e.g. depression, anxiety, conduct problems), the interplay between genetic factors, pre-natal, post-natal rearing experiences and children's mental health, and translating research-led recommendations to practice and policy contexts.

He is also a consultant and advisor to several government departments in the UK and internationally.

All welcome
