LfL Principles Incorporated in the Headteachers’ Handbook

It is refreshing to see the five Leadership for Learning principles in the current edition of the Ghana Education Service’s (GES) Headteachers’ Handbook, published in November, 2010. The inclusion of the principles in the headteachers’ handbook is an indication of GES’s conviction that the Leadership for Learning framework can support headteachers to lead their schools to focus on learning and eventually achieve desired results.

This is evidenced in the following statement on page iii of the FOREWORD that:

Headteachers are reminded to make learning the pivot around which all other activities evolve in the school. The handbook also draws headteachers’ attention to the five principles that are critical for carrying out their leadership for learning tasks: maintaining a focus on learning; creating conditions favourable to learning; creating a dialogue about leadership for learning; practicing shared leadership and encouraging a shared sense of accountability.

According to the Foreword, two major basic school leadership issues are addressed in the handbook: managing the school and improving the quality of learning. To this end, the Handbook is organized in three sections, viz:

1. Basic Education in Ghana
2. Managing your School
3. Improving the Quality of Learning

The Leadership for Learning Model is featured under Unit 9 (Strategies and guidelines for improving learning) of Section 3 (Improving the quality of learning). Here, in five pages, the five LfL principle is presented and explained and some suggestions offered as to how to implement them.

Therefore, all things being equal, all basic school headteachers will get to know about the leadership for learning framework and principles. It is this reality that presents a major challenge to Leadership for Learning Ghana programme to offer the necessary support to headteachers to implement the principles in their schools for improved learning outcomes.

We accept this challenge and promise to continue to work with the relevant divisions of the Ghana Education Service to support headteachers to understand and apply the leadership for learning framework. Good job! Kudos to all who contributed in diverse ways in getting the Headteachers’ handbook published.

A Two-Day Workshop on Leadership for Learning (LfL) for Basic School Headteachers of Catholic Schools in Kwahu-North District: Report by Mr. Mathew Apudego

This report covers a two-day workshop on leadership for learning (LfL) for heads of Catholic basic schools in the Kwahu-North district held at Donkorkrom from 21st – 22nd March, 2012. The main objective of the workshop was to equip heads of Catholic basic schools in the district with knowledge and skills in Leadership for Learning to enable them lead their schools to focus on learning.

A total of 22 headteachers comprising 16 primary school heads and 6 junior high school heads in the district attended the workshop. Three facilitators - two circuit supervisors and one trained STL (now supervisor of catholic schools) managed the workshop. These are: Matthew Robinson Apudego (STL) Emmanuel Okofo – Gyasi (CS) Kenneth Asou (CS).

The district Director of Education, Mr. Gabriel Adu and Our Lord Bishop, Gabriel Edoe Kumordji of the Donkorkrom Apostolic Vicariate were at the centre to formally open the workshop. In his opening address, the District Director stressed the need for participants to show utmost interest.

in education delivery in the district. He also challenged Catholic school heads in the district to perform better than their counterparts because they had an advantage of double supervision; from the district education office and also from the Catholic education unit.

The Lord Bishop on his part stressed the need for discipline in Catholic schools. Both the District Director and Our Lord Bishop wished participants a happy workshop.

The following topics were discussed for the two day period:
* Leadership for Learning Principles; A focus on Learning
  Conductive conditions for Learning
* The role of a leader
* Supervisory roles of the headteacher: old and new
* Some challenges and opportunities
* Critical vetting of lesson notes
* Organising INSETs
* Networking
* Projecting the LFL programme
* The role of assistant headteacher
* What makes a good school – GES perspective, Headteachers’ perspective, etc

It was observed that participants showed keen interest in the programme (LFL). They actively got involved in group work, and at the end of the day, they all expressed their satisfaction about the workshop and wished for another workshop on the remaining principles.

On the whole, the workshop was successful. Participants were provided breakfast, lunch and supper for the two days.

BEREAVEMENT!!

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Eric Dover, one of our hard working Professional Development Leaders (PDLs). Eric, as we affectionately called him, died on 11th June, 2012 after a short illness. Until his death, Eric was working at the National Board for Professional and Technician Examinations. Prior to that, Eric was the Assistant Director in charge of Human Resource Management and Development (HRMD) at the Asuogyaman District Education Office in the Eastern Region.

He was such a friendly, affable, knowledgeable and sociable man. LFL Ghana extends its condolences to the bereaved family. We will miss you so much.

ERIC! May your soul rest in perfect peace.
LFL WORKSHOP FOR BASIC SCHOOL HEADTEACHERS IN THE JOMORO DISTRICT OF THE WESTERN REGION – Report by Mrs. Betty Mould (STL)

In recognition of the impact that LFL is having on the leadership of headteachers of schools that have participated in LFL workshops, the Jomoro district directorate of education organized LFL workshops for all the 110 basic school headteachers from the 5 circuits in the district.

The workshop was organized at two centers; namely Half Assini from 28th – 29th February, 2012 and New Nzulezo (MANS) from 1st – 2nd March, 2012. Center one was made up of participants from Half Assini and Bonnye circuits and center two comprised of Tikrobo No. 1, Mpataba and Elubo circuits.

The main aim of the workshops was to introduce headteachers to the five LFL principles and to discuss ways of making them visible in the school to enhance school effectiveness.

The workshops were facilitated by Mrs. Betty Mould -STL, Nana Ayebie Amihere D/A Primary, Mr. P. M. Addison -STL, Elubo Catholic Primary and Mr. Augustine Mensah -Circuit Supervisor, Mpataba Circuit. On the first day of each of the workshops, participants were taken through the general overview of Leadership for Learning; Focus on Learning and Learning Environment.

On the second day, discussions focused on Learning Dialogue, Shared Leadership, Shared Accountability and Critical Friendship.

The coordinator of the Leadership for Learning Ghana programme, Dr. Alford Ampah – Mensah was present at the first workshop at Half Assini to support the workshop and also contribute to discussions.

At the end of the workshops, participants indicated that their understanding of their leadership roles in promoting teaching and learning has improved.

STLs IN SEKONDI TAKORADI METROPOLITAN AREA, WERSTERN REGION ORGANIZE A DAYS LFL WORKSHOP FOR COLLEAGUE HEADTEACHERS:

Report by Mr. Bismark Kraikue (STL)

The workshop was organised by STLs from Sekondi Takoradi Metropolitan Area (STMA), Mpoahor Wassa East and Shama districts on 17th February, 2012 for 19 headteachers from the Takoradi central circuit in STMA. Facilitators for the workshop were:

Mrs. Juliana Ohene - PDL,
Mr. Bismark Kraikue - STL,
Mr. Oduru Acheampong - STL,
Mr. Benjamin Enin - STL,
Mrs. G.N. Agyapomah Mensah - STL,
Mrs. Elizabeth Bissah Mensah - STL.

The workshop commenced at exactly 10:20am with an opening prayer by Mrs. Gina Agyapomah Mensah. This was followed by a presentation on the general overview of the Leadership for Learning programme by Mrs. Juliana Ohene. Mrs. Ohene stressed the importance of each of the five principles of Leadership for Learning - a focus on learning conditions for learning; learning dialogue; shared leadership and shared accountability. After the overview by Mrs. Ohene, each of the five STLs present led a discussion on one of the five principles of leadership for learning.

There was also a plenary session where participants asked questions on challenging issues.

This session ended with a general review of the day’s discussions by Mrs. Ohene after which she gave her closing remarks. In her closing remarks, Mrs. Ohene enumerated some tips on how to be a great leader. Mr. Oduru Acheampong gave the vote of thanks followed by a closing prayer by Mr. P. C. K. Ackom, a participant. In summary, though the time for discussion was short, participants were happy for the exposure to Leadership for Learning and requested for another workshop. They also expressed their commitment to going back to their schools to implement what they had learnt. Overall, the programme was a success.
LFL GHANA TEXT MESSAGING SYSTEM IN MOTION

LFL Ghana has for some time been exploring effective and efficient ways of communicating with all stakeholders in the programme. Initial attempts on using emails were not successful since most of the headteachers, who are our focus, did not have email addresses. However, all of them have mobile phones. We have therefore instituted a weekly text messaging system where we send updates, news, ideas and announcements every Monday morning to STls and circuit supervisors. We are pleased with the responses so far and hope to extend the service to other stakeholders very soon. We share below two of the text messages sent so far and some responses received.

MESSAGE FROM DIRECTOR OF IEPA

One concept that has increasingly emerged in contemporary thinking about quality improvement in school education is 'leadership'. Thus a school's success is largely influenced by the manner in which its leader perceives and performs his/her work (West & Jackson, 2001). Leadership is therefore crucial in our country's pursuit of quality education.

To equip the headteacher with the requisite leadership capacity, their preparation should not only address issues of resource management efficiency and effectiveness but, more significantly, it should focus on learning with particular reference to numeracy and literacy, monitoring pupil homework, maximizing teacher and learner time on task; adherence to the language of pedagogy, preventing teacher and pupil absenteeism, effective supervision and others.

These quality learning tenets constitute the core of the LFL programme. Some LFL schools are impacting positively on pupil's learning; yet in others, headteachers continue to grapple with challenges of logistics and management support. In schools where School Management Committees (SMC), Chiefs, Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) and other stakeholders provide support to headteachers, LFL principles have permeated every activity of teachers and pupils.
